

"I got the Oklahoma Jumbo Beef Short Ribs. Well, Rib, that is. It's the biggest rib I've ever seen. I've never been to OK or TX, so I don't have much to compare it to, but the bone was a foot long, with a gentle curve and the attached hunk of meat was almost as big as a brick. Awesome. The guy I went with is from Texas and the enormity left him speechless .BBQ is such a visceral, primal eating experience and this rib immediately posits you in a Caveman, "Man like beef" place. Just holding this thing was joyous. The first few bites were epic. Moist, tender...a smoky Neanderthal brisket. Sides: Baked beans with burnt ends were terrific."

-- Snausages2000, aka Member No.: 11770

"Worth checking out." -- Steven A. Shaw, aka "Fat Guy" Director, eGullet.com

Digitalmediatree.com

I and everybody I talk to love Daisy May's BBQ, 623 11th Ave @46th St.....
- Skinny 9-09-2003 5:33 pm [link] [add a comment]

Chowhound's Manhattan Message Board

Subject: Re(1): daisy may's bbq truck - chili stand
From: tailg8r@optonline.net (Alan)
Posted: February 24, 2004 at 12:54:20

I work @ 40 Broad St. The other day on the way to the subway I passed a Daisy May's BBQ cart on Wall Street and made a mental note to go back. Well..... I just finished one of the most amazing bowls of chili I ever had. I had it with the rice & beans and the chipotle sauce. It was incredible